National Intangible Heritage Status

The announcement by the Government Department that the 9 Irish Pedigree Dog Breeds have been granted National Intangible Heritage Status is a great achievement and results from the dedication of a few committed individuals.

From the time The Irish Breeds Society started their national program for the promotion of the Irish breeds by organising presentations at Game Fairs and Agricultural Shows nationwide, by interacting with the Connemara Pony and The Hawking Society and by holding events celebrating the place of Irish Breeds in history and mythology and hosting The Heartland Heritage Festival in the Moate the momentum was building up. Through all of this Eddie Burke, Vincy Flannelly, Sean Delmar and I drove it with a passion.

As no club could make this application it required a national organisation i.e. The Irish Kennel Club to be the umbrella Group to represent all of this and make the formal submission. This was driven by Sean with great assistance from the IKC Staff and required a lot of form filling, a lot of background information and a commitment to make it happen.

This announcement is tinged with sadness, as an absolute legend in Irish Breeds died recently Homer, owned and bred by Nick and Ann White in Wicklow was the most famous Irish Glen of Imaal, a star of TV, and a Multiple Champion who featured on a postage stamp in Ireland and truly was the Godfather of the Breed.

Two other individuals deserve special mentions that are not directly connected with Irish Breeds and they are, Evelyn Hurley and Tom Creamer. Evelyn, who was always there to help, from the bog to the stage and everything in between, and Tom, who put so much hard work into the publication of the first book on Irish Breeds and there history.

This is great for the future protection of our Native Breeds

The Irish Breeds Society organise our Championship Show on 14th Sept 2019 in Ardgilan Castle, Co. Dublin where we will celebrate this occasion.
